Ronnie the raccoon lived in a park in Santa Monica. He was not a very nice raccoon – his mother always complained that he did not listen and always got into trouble. When he became a teenager (which is about 3 raccoon years) he really got into trouble. He wanted to rob a bank! So he bought himself a mask, put it on and marched into the local bank. He thought people would be scared because he had a mask. But to his surprise no one noticed. You see – no one can tell if a raccoon is wearing a mask!

But because he is small he was able to sneak into the vault where they kept the money. But the vault was locked. What to do?

All of a sudden Ronnie hears a low moan. It is coming from behind the security camera. Who could it be? Ronnie peaks around the corner and sees a bunny.

“Who are you?”

“I am Bernice Bunny. Who are you?”

“I'm Ronnie Raccoon. I came to rob the bank, but they just laughed at me. You see I have this mark on my face that looks like a mask, so no one believed I was wearing a mask. I snuck down here but could not open the safe.”

“I don't think you are an evil raccoon. Maybe we should be super hero animals and do good things. The evil Sylvester Slug put me here. Let's get him!”

“OK let's do it.”

“What should we do?”

“I don't know. Some super heroes we are. Well - the Slug can squeeze anywhere (slugs have no bones) and he leaves a slimy trail – a poison slimy trail that is making the city sick. “ That's how he got into the bank vault – he just squeezed between the door and the wall. “

Ronnie remembers there was a key that he found, but could not reach the key hole. But now he wanted to stand on top of Bernice but a little bird named Rose said it has to be the other way. So Bernice stood on top of Ronnie. Ronnie hopped over to the keyhole – since Bernice would have hopped. Now she could reach the keyhole. She unlocked the door and both were able to escape.

Now that they are on the street they could follow the slime trail to Sylvester. Being super pets they could fly. So they were able to fly over the slime without getting sick. They flew and flew – until they came to the Camp for Bad Guys. Standing there, because slugs can't sit was Sylvester and his two guards – giant spiders!! Sylvester made a whorl pool of poison slim – the spider's giant electrical webs made of a special evil wire. But this could not stop them because, being super pets they could fly, the poison does not harm them and the web could not catch them. Ronnie grabbed Sylvester – but he slipped out of his grasp. It is hard to grab a slug. After all it is gross. Then the spiders grabbed Ronnie by the neck. Bernice thumps the spider forcing them to release Ronnie. Ronnie is relieved, but Sylvester brings in the reinforcements. T. Rex Poppy Pants. He poops coal which, if hot enough will burst into flame. Now this is less dangerous than flam breathing T. Rex, but formidable anyway. Fortunately Ronnie has a dinosaur friend - Ankylosaurus. It launches its club hitting T. Rex Poppy Pants. Hitting the spiders hitting the slug. But Sylvester manages to escape. The spiders on the other hand are lying in a heap.. no longer able to hurt Ronnie or Bernice.

Sylvester squeeze through the door since Ronnie and Bernice are guarding the entrance to leave the Camp for Evil Guys.

Even though the door was skinny (Sylvester could get through) Ronnie and Bernice using their super powers were able to glide through the door at full speed ahead. Sylvester was still leaving a slime trail to follow. Using the dry ice that Ronnie and Bernice always carry, they were able to freeze the slime trail. They smushed the frozen slime using the CO2 left by the dry ice to safely follow Sylvester.

When Sylvester realized that he was being following by a cloud of CO2 which was being followed by Ronnie and Bernice (who were still going full speed ahead). Sylvester tried to escape at full speed ahead, but this is not easy for a slug. So he tries to make a poisonous force field. But since Ronnie and Bernice have secretly put special powers into the CO2, the CO2 could go into the force field and cancel it out. Now Sylvester tries to slip back into a sewer. But he could not get in fast enough and before he knows it Ronnie and Bernice are sliding down the sewer. They leave Ankylosaurus at the camp to keep the evil guys (who were enjoying the camp) from following.

Guess who lives in the sewer? Ramon the alligator. Ramon is huge – 30 feet long. As long as a great white shark. Ramon likes to keep a clean sewer - He works day and night cleaning up after the dirt people throw into the sewer. Now Sylvester is bringing slime into his sewer. Ramon is very angry! He sees the super animals throwing clean dry ice at the slime. Ramon wants to join them. We now have three super animals: Ronnie and Bernice want to stop evil. Ramon wants to clean up after them.

The first order of business to deal with is the problem that Ramon does not fly. Easily solved. Bernice sprinkled Ramon with magic bunny dust. Now there are three flying super hero animals (in addition to super hero Ankylosaurus who is too big to fly even with bunny dust and is enjoying his stay at the camp for evil guys).

The three are after Sylvester. Who is now heading for Disneyland. Sylvester's slime glows a pale blue, attracting little kids. Once they get stuck in the poison slime they fall asleep and turn into gummy bears. Sylvester was once a regular sized slug, but drank some radioactive water in Florida and started to grow and grow. Now he is the size of a small apartment with two bathrooms. He found out that Disneyland kills more slugs than any place else. So he is slimming his way cross-country to get revenge. His stop at the bank was a mistake. He thought there would be a lot of kids in the vault, But he only found Ronnie and Bernice.

Ramon knew the evil thing Sylvester was going to do because he heard him say bad things about kids and Disneyland (Sylvester learned how to talk while passing through Alabama). The three heroes could only fly at night. You see a flying Raccoon and Bunny is OK, but a flying 30-foot Alligator is very scary. This was not a problem – it made it easier to follow the glowing blue slime. They had to stop a lot to save the gummy bear kids stuck in the slime but were still catching up.

Sylvester made himself look like “The Small World” (after all he is as big as an apartment). Little children happily entered, but never left – they became gummy bears. Sylvester was having a great time at Disneyland. This was the happiest he had ever been. If a kid was eating candy when he entered, Sylvester would gobble it up before making a kid gummy bear.

The super heroes finally arrived. They looked all over but could not find Sylvester. His disguise was perfect. Ramon remembered he grew up with a friendly beluga whale who now worked at the park. It was not hard to find Bella the Beluga (after all she is in the only large tank at Disneyland).

“Bella “ cried Ramon, “we are looking for Sylvester the evil slug. He is turning little kids into gummy bears. Can you help us?”

“I would love to “ said Bella. “ A little bird, Rose, just turned up before you did. I think she can find Sylvester.”

Before long Rose flew back. “ I think I found Sylvester. There are hundreds of gummy bears outside “Small world”. I bet that is where he is.”

Bella remembered that slugs hate salt water. So she splashed water from her tank onto Sylvester. Ramon flew to the ocean, grabbed tons of water in his mouth and refilled Bella's tank. No one knows why Ramon did not just dump the water on Sylvester in the first place.

Sylvester was able to slither away. The super heroes spent the day using magic bunny dust to turn the gummy bears back to kids. Disneyland was so grateful they gave the super heroes a 10% discount for their next visit.

Now Sylvester is very angry. He is slithering to Santa Monica, which is where our story started.

On his way to Santa Monica he was run over by a truck carrying zoo animals. They picked up Sylvester and brought him to the zoo. He was put into a cage made with glass walls so the children could look at him without getting covered with blue slime. Ronnie, Bernice, and Ramon got free tickets to the Zoo forever. Ankylosaurus can also go whenever he wants to.
